USING SUPPORT AND RESISTANCE IN TRADING

Support and resistance are key concepts that help traders understand, analyze and act on chart patterns in the financial markets. Support describes a price level where a downtrend pauses due to demand for an asset increasing, while resistance refers to a level where an uptrend reverses as a sell-off happens. Forex support and resistance allows FX traders and investors to better understand where to enter and exit trades, reduce their risk exposure and benefit from a favorable risk to reward ratio.

Dow Jones Forecast Largely Unchanged After Fed Minutes Despite Losses

The Dow Jones dipped slightly following the release of FOMC meeting minutes Wednesday afternoon. In the transcript it was revealed Fed officials have pondered yield curve control as a possible policy option. While gold prices dropped and the US Dollar spiked, equity markets suffered only minor losses. To be sure, the underlying tailwind behind stocks remains intact after the Fed announced large scale asset purchases are officially part of the conventional monetary policy toolkit.

STOCK MARKET EXCHANGE MARKET

Instead of speculating and gambling, a young investor should look to invest in companies that have higher risk but greater upside potential over the long term. A young investor is at an advantage in his or her investing life. Holding the level of wealth constant, an investor's age affects how much risk he or she can take on. So, a young investor can seek out bigger returns by taking bigger risks. This may seem like an argument for a young investor to speculate, but it is not.

No other binary options broker has ever introduced a standard stock market option associated with your investment . Now you won't have to use different monitors in order to be able to follow several charts and not to miss the right moment to execute a trade. It has also become a lot more convenient to follow the price of an asset in different time frames using slow and fast indicators. All this makes trading with Our platform even more professional.
